

Josh Bishop

Josh Bishop is an award-winning director specializing in feature documentaries, branded content and music videos. Josh's first documentary feature, MADE IN JAPAN (currently streaming on Amazon Prime) premiered at SXSW 2015 in Austin, Texas. The film boasts Morgan Spurlock as executive producer and Elijah Wood as both executive producer and narrator. His second documentary feature, THE DWARVENAUT, premiered at SXSW 2016 and is currently available on most VOD platforms after almost 3 years on Netflix.

After 17 years in New York City, Josh relocated to Nashville with his family, where he continues to create documentary content and direct music videos. In 2019, he directed a pilot for the world's first fantasy-based documentary travel series DESTINATION

FANTASTIC. Most recently, Josh directed YEARS, a music video for country music legend John Anderson, currently signed to Dan Auerbach's Easy Eye Sound recording label.

Director Statement

I live a half a mile from Five Points in East Nashville, a neighborhood that was completely ravaged by the storm... thankfully my family and myself were lucky to have been spared any damage. Making this film is my way of contributing to the incredible spirit that I witnessed in the days since the storm.
